

Poynter Primary School

Independent Public School

Cassandra Brown

My husband Rod and I have been living in Duncraig for the past ten years. Our two children attend Poynter Primary. Finlay is in Kindergarten and Lacey is in Year 1.

At Poynter Primary I am a member and contributor of the P&C, Class Parent Representative and the Safety House Co-ordinator.

I hold a Bachelor of Education, Early Childhood Studies. During the last sixteen years I have worked as a Teacher in Independent, Catholic and Government schools. For the past decade I have been teaching at St Mark's Anglican Community School in the Early Learning Centre.

Additionally, I work for Edith Cowan University as Practicum Supervisor, supporting and assessing student teachers in Early Childhood and Primary classrooms within the north metropolitan area.

I am passionate about family, communities and education, placing great importance on nurturing social networks and developing sound conceptual foundations for children. As a parent I am constantly working at building home-school and community relationships.

In my position on the Poynter School Board I aim to utilise my experience as an educator and parent with current insights to make a significant contribution to the future of our school.
